

REBUILDING

A Gigantic Offering of Domestic.

Our Rebuilding

is being pushed forward with all the rapidity that able and thorough workmen can do. Both day and night have been put into service in order to have everything ready by October 1. Shifting of departments, some to temporary quarters and others to permanent location, is a sure sign that something is being done. These reminders, no doubt, are very pleasant store news, but there's always something else that goes with such an announcement, and that is our usual bargain items. We have selected quite a nice lot of leaders, which we think have strength to draw a crowd of buyers who know true values.

These values will appeal to every woman or housewife who understands the make and quality of standard cotton goods.

Affairs of the District.

Telephone Facilities for the Schley Court of Enquiry.

The Commissioners May Grant an Application on the Ground of Public Emergency—Garbage Service Reported in Good Working Order.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has applied for permission to string two wires from the line in square 62 southwest along N. Third, and M Streets to the United States Navy Yard, to furnish service temporarily to the Schley Court of Enquiry.

The application was referred to the Electrical Department, and Thomas J. Fisher, Acting Electrical Engineer, has reported that "according to the act of Congress approved March 3, 1897, the Commissioners are without the requisite authority to grant the permit. But the statement of Commander Leutze that this connection is for the exclusive use of the Court of Enquiry, and the verbal statement of the naval officials at the yard that, without this connection, the proceedings will be seriously delayed through the lack of proper facilities in the nature of a telephone in calling for witnesses and papers which the emergency of the case will call up from time to time, in my opinion, places the necessity of putting this telephone in the light of a public emergency which justifies the approval of the request.

It would, therefore, be recommended that the application be granted and the facts stated be set forth in full upon the permit to be issued, with the addition that all wires be removed ten days after the final adjournment of the court. This action is to be in no way used as a precedent in the future.

The recommendation was yesterday approved by Commissioner Ross and forwarded to his associates.

The Commissioners yesterday authorized the issue of the following orders for public work through the Engineer Department:

That pending the reconstruction of an underground electric railroad the tracks of the Anacostia and Potomac River Railroad Company on O Street northeast, between Fourth and Eleventh Streets, be removed and the space they occupy paved in conformity with the roadway pavement on the street, at an estimated cost of $6,700, chargeable to the deposit made by the said railroad company for this purpose.

That sewer be constructed in E Street northwest, between Ninth and Tenth Streets, at an estimated cost of $20, chargeable to an appropriation for main and pipe sewers, 1902.

That fire hydrants be erected as follows: Prospect Street, between Thirty-second and Potomac Streets; N Street, between Thirty-second and Thirty-third Streets; S Street, between Sixteenth and Seventeenth Streets, and on the north side of Washington Circle and Pennsylvania Avenue, at an estimated total cost of $448.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has filed with the Commissioners three applications to string wires in the extension of their service in the suburban portions of the city. They ask to be allowed to string two wires from the cable pole at the corner of Nineteenth Street and Columbia Avenue to premises 212 Wyoming Avenue.

They also ask for permission to string two wires from premises 1296 Ronsdale Street to premises 127 on the same street.

REPORT OF TAX COLLECTOR

A Review of Operations Under the New System.

The Amounts Received From the Various Sources of Revenue—Estimates and Recommendations for the Next Fiscal Year Announced.

E. G. Davis, the Collector of Taxes, has submitted to the Commissioners a report of the operations of his office for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1901. The report shows the following collections of revenue from various sources: Real estate tax, $2,707,007.98; personal tax, $178,156.16; penalties and interest, $1,577.39; miscellaneous, $602.88; water fund, $29,288.83; assessment and permit work, $36,503.39; improvements and repairs, $11,022.36; deposits to the credit of the United States, $17,022.82; sundry deposits, $661,672.12; permit work (whole cloth), $11,081.28. Total, $4,541,053.31.

Mr. Davis submits certain recommendations which he deems necessary for the improvement of the efficiency of the service of his department, and such explanations as may lead to a better understanding of the conditions and difficulties experienced in the administration of the office.

"The lack of sufficient force," says Mr. Davis, "to properly transact the business and to give to taxpayers that prompt and satisfactory service which they ought to have has long been apparent to everyone who is brought into business relations with the office. Our present inadequate force and the rapidly increasing business of the office would suggest a large addition to the number of clerks, but I have only asked for such increase as has been found, by experience, to be absolutely necessary—namely, an assistant cashier and two coupon clerks.

"Our recommendations to supply the needs of the office are based on an intimate knowledge, gained by experience, of what is necessary for the purpose, hence, the failure of Congress to supply the necessary assistance to enable this office to meet its growing demands has been the cause of embarrassment during the past four years.

"The system of collecting taxes inaugurated in last May, after the defects developed in the beginning were remedied, worked very satisfactorily. It was found impracticable for this office to deliver bills, as originally intended, owing to the delay caused by having to return such a large number of bills to the Assessor for alteration. In the meantime taxpayers awaiting the return of changed bills made it difficult for others in line to approach the cashier's desk, which caused dissatisfaction and confusion and seriously interfered with the dispatch of business. Happily that was of short duration, the remedy being found by transferring the delivery of bills to the Assessor's office. This simplified matters by removing the cause of the delay and confusion and permitted the business to proceed in an orderly manner, and the system worked smoothly and was the subject of commendation by taxpayers generally. It has, however, materially increased the work of this and the Assessor's office, but the improved service, we think, more than compensates for the increased labor. In order to continue the improved system it is necessary to have

ADJOURNMENT OF COURT.

Justice Anderson Pays Tribute to the Wounded Patriot.

Justice Anderson, presiding in the Equity branch of the Supreme Court of the District, adjourned court yesterday morning on motion of Mr. D. W. Baker. Before announcing the order of adjournment Justice Anderson spoke briefly of the country in the attempt of an assassin to take the life of the President.

"Everyone," he said, "was shocked, and I feel that in the disturbed condition of their minds the members of the bar would prefer deferring the consideration of matters in this case to some other day."
